COLLEGE HANDED A GOOD REPORT

PLEASED: Principal Colin Hindmarch described the Ofsted report as a "fair and accurate representation of Harlow College"

STAFF and students have started the New Year on a high after Ofsted inspectors praised Harlow College's continuing improvement.

The college was rated as "good" with several outstanding features in the report published yesterday (Wednesday) by the Government education watchdog.

The comprehensive inspection covered everything from the curriculum and how the college is managed to its financial affairs, student support network and work with outside partners.

It highlights the college's "outstanding" capacity to make and sustain improvement and notes that an exceptionally high number of students successfully completed their courses, with many achieving high grades.

The college's commitment to providing personal, pastoral and welfare support to students is also praised, while managers and team leaders are described as determined to bring about further improvements.

The effective use of an extensive range of partnerships to develop and respond to the emerging needs of learners is described as "outstanding", while arrangements to monitor and improve the quality of teaching and learning are deemed highly effective.

Jobs axe looms as council looks to cut spending

At least 14 back office jobs are at risk at Harlow Council as the cash-strapped authority looks to make savings in the wake of savage cuts to its Government grant settlement.

Last month Whitehall announced plans to slash the Conservative-run authority's funding by 25 per cent over the next two years - throwing the future of services and jobs into doubt.

This week council leader Andrew Johnson revealed that a consultation over potential job losses is now under way with back office staff, with around 14 posts currently under threat.

"People are aware that as a result of Government spending reductions the council is going to have to make some tough decisions about services and council jobs," he said.

"We will ensure that frontline services are protected as far as possible, but there are currently a number of posts in back office services at risk which could result in around 14 being lost."

Mr Johnson admitted that further budget proposals could affect staff in other departments.

"The council's proposed budget report for 2011/12 will be published at the end of January and at this time we will know how many posts may be lost," he added.

"We will support those affected and look to redeploy staff where we can to minimise the number of compulsory redundancies, but it is going to be tough."

Recycling rate hits new high

By CHRIS MOSS, News Editor
chris.moss@hertsexnews.co.uk

HARLOW residents are being urged to stay green in the New Year after smashing recycling records in 2010.

Almost 12 months after Harlow Council rolled out its controversial wheeie bin waste collection scheme across the town, recycling rates have rocketed to more than 50 per cent, with over 10,000 tonnes of waste being diverted away from landfill sites in the past year alone.

And following Christmas and New Year festivities, the authority is now encouraging residents to keep up the good work by recycling their leftovers, wrapping paper, cards and even Christmas trees.

Tony Hall, chairman of the council's environment policy working group, said: "Wrapping paper, cardboard, food jars and tins as well as old sweet and biscuit tins can all be recycled from home.

"Christmas is also a time when we buy extra food so if you not using the leftovers, recycle it using our weekly food waste collection."

Any extra recycling should be put in boxes or untied plastic bags (not black or purple), while extra food

Pick-ups getting back to normal

HARLOW bin crews are on track to complete all pick-ups for dry and food waste by Monday, according to Harlow Council. Normal collections were postponed in a number of areas during the run-up to Christmas as it was deemed too hazardous for lorries to negotiate iced-up side roads and cul-de-sacs.

But refuse and recycling teams worked overtime on three days after Christmas plus an additional Saturday to pick up uncollected rubbish. Bin crews are now working to an additional collection timetable which can be viewed on the council's website at www.harlow.gov.uk.

The council hopes the normal bin collection timetable will be back to normal after this weekend.

Tony Hall, chairman of the council's environment policy working group, said the authority was grateful for residents' patience during the cold snap.

"We know it is frustrating for householders not to get rubbish picked up but safety going in and out of roads had to be our key concern," he said. "Thanks to the hard work of the bin collection teams and the council's staff in keeping people informed, we have managed to keep on top of the problem in often difficult circumstances."

● 'Residents' fears over backlog of refuse' - see page 7 waste can be placed in compostable bags and left on top of the container or in a cardboard box.

Although collections are currently running behind schedule due to adverse weather conditions in the run-up to Christmas, households are advised to continue to put out their waste and recycling if it is not collected.

Cllr Hall added: "2010 has been a great year for recycling and this is all thanks to residents. They have made tremendous efforts to ensure every scrap of recyclable waste goes into the right bin or box and have really taken to the system. We appreciate their efforts."

Principal pleased by Ofsted report

But the report also highlights several areas in which the college needs to improve, drawing attention to the "uneven" promotion of equality and diversity in lessons and noting that students have complained that feedback given by teaching staff often lacked detail.

It also warned that students were "not sufficiently involved" in theory lessons.

College principal Colin Hindmarch, who was heavily criticised in 2007 for implementation of a controversial new teaching and learning strategy which led to a number of teaching staff resigning or being made redundant, said he was pleased with the inspection team's findings.

"It is a fair and accurate representation of Harlow College," he said. "The report describes that we have an outstanding capacity to improve and I take comfort in that."

"This means we have the knowledge and skills to get us where we want to be, that is to be the very best college in the country."

He added: "Given our rapid rate of improvement, I just wish Ofsted had waited a few more months as I believe we would then have gained an overall grade of outstanding."

Harlow MP Rob Halfon praised Mr Hindmarch and college staff for what he described as an "excellent" report.

"The Ofsted report is a tribute to the principal, his staff and students," he said. "As MP for Harlow, I am proud that our college is a centre of excellence and achievement."

What a way to celebrate the new year!

THERE was a perfect start to 2011 for eight sets of proud parents who celebrated the arrival of a new addition to their family.

Eight babies were born at Harlow's Princess Alexandra Hospital on New Year's Day.

One of them was Alfie-James Barnard, pictured right with first-time parents Michelle (21) and Steve (24). He made his appearance almost a week and a half late and tipped the scales at a healthy 7lb 8oz.

Mum Michelle said he had settled well into their Nicholls Field home. "He is amazing and it has been amazing having him - absolutely indescribable, beyond words," she said.

The third New Year's Day baby to be born at the hospital was Olivia Male, who was delivered at 9.32am and weighed 8lb 9oz.

Mum Rachel, from Church Langley, said, "She's been lovely, absolutely adorable. This has been a fantastic start to the new year!"

Charity gets help to maintain village hall

A CHARITY that runs a community centre and playing field in North Weald has been awarded more than £4,000-worth of grants.

The Queens Hall Charity has received funding to help towards the cost of replacing the lighting in the main hall, store room and entrance of the centre in School Green Lane.

It will also pay for work on the plumbing in the pavilion on the Memorial Playing Field.

Most of the money came from Essex County Council, while Epping Forest Council and North Weald Bassett Council also chipped in.

Charity chairman Anne Garwood said: "These generous donations have enabled us to carry out essential maintenance works to the main hall and pavilion.

"We had been experiencing failure of the lights, with nine of the 12 units in the hall not working to full capacity.

"We had also received a report showing the plumbing in the pavilion was potentially dangerous and required earthing.

"We will now be able to concentrate our efforts on further improvement to the hall and field. The new lighting will make the hall more attractive to hirers."

Councillor Elizabeth Webster, chairman of Essex County Council's West Area Forum, said: "We wanted support projects that could improve communities by achieving tangible improvements to people's lives within local communities and could demonstrate community support."

Scouts look back on a special year

By DAN PHILLIPS

daniel.phillips@hertsessexnews.co.uk

SCOUTS in Harlow have secured grants of more than £10,000 to help to secure the future of the movement in the area.

The grant will be used to pay for trips, camping fees and equipment, tables and chairs and a lawnmower.

The award crowned a bumper year for the district's Scout groups who throughout 2010 celebrated 100 years since the movement was taken up in the area.

"The Scout Association was 100 years old in 2007 and, therefore, shows that the Harlow area was one of the first to start Scouting after Baden Powell founded the movement," said a spokesman.

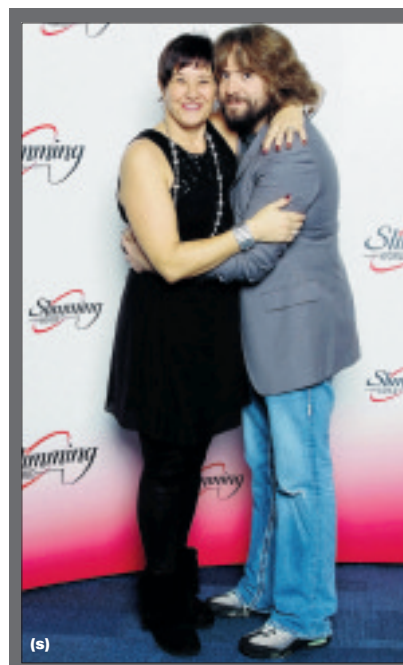

"In Harlow there are over 300 young people actively involved in Scouting from the age of six. Unlike 1910, there is now a mix of girls and boys within all sections of the movement."

Last year kicked off with a badge competition to see who could design the centenary badge which was used as the centre piece of the centenary camp.

Some 300 youngsters turned up at the Risdens campsite in Harlow for a weekend in July to celebrate the anniversary.

During the summer Scout leaders Nigel Apps, Pete Longville and Toni Mitchell were presented with civic awards by Harlow Council while district commissioner Ann Nutt attended a Buckingham Palace Garden Party.

A well-attended reunion of former Scout leaders was also held in Harlow in Lesley's got a hold on Justin

A SLIMMING class leader from Harlow got up close and personal with TV presenter and funny man Justin Lee Collins at an awards ceremony.

Lesley Zanone, who runs a weekly Slimming World group at the Tye Green Community Centre in Tilegate Road, met the host of Channel 4's The Sunday Night Project at the ceremony to celebrate some of the UK's most successful slimmers.

"Meeting Justin Lee Collins was the perfect ending to what's been another amazing year for Slimming World," said Lesley.

Justin added: "The whole awards experience blew me away.

"I met some really inspirational people, not only the slimmers who collected awards for losing weight and changing their lives, but also the amazing people like Lesley who run the groups and support them along their journey."

November.

The spokesman added: "Last year was a great year for the district and all the young people hope for support to keep the movement strong in the town for the next 100 years."

Pat on the back for county's army of volunteer responders

COMMUNITY volunteers who have been on call over the festive period to help residents with serious illnesses have been praised for their dedication.

The county's Community First Responders gave up their time to help sick people over the Christmas and New Year period, as well as during the recent bad weather.

"Local voluntary first responders have been going out night and day to help people seriously ill with things like heart attacks and strokes," said Peter Blackman, chairman of the strategy group for Essex Community First Responders.

"Patients and families have been particularly pleased to see responders who have been able to arrive soon and bring early help and reassurance."

During the holiday period about 70 areas of the county had volunteers available to respond if people in their neighbourhoods were taken seriously ill.

Wendy Risdale-Barr, ambulance community partnership manager for Essex, said: "We sometimes forget that hundreds of volunteers are putting aside their own celebrations during the festive period to help others.

"Groups do it 24/7, 52 weeks a year but at this time it's especially important to pay tribute to their dedication.

"We hope they were able to spend some time with loved ones, and look forward to working together in 2011 to further bolster the Community First Responders cause."

Paul Leaman, associate director of operational partnerships for the East of England Ambulance Service NHS Trust, added: "It is to their great credit that they continue to give up their time and go out despite the extra dangers of the bad weather and make themselves available when everyone else is enjoying themselves."

Council contractor a 'champion' of road safety

THE company which carries out repairs and maintenance on behalf of Harlow Council has won official recognition for its efforts to promote road safety among its employees and reduce its environmental impact.

Last year it signed up to the Driving for Better Business campaign organised by RoadSafe, a partnership between the Government and leading companies in the motor and transport industries.

Road safety initiatives and driver education has resulted in a drop in vehicle-related incidents and significant financial savings, according to the firm.

In order to help reduce its impact on the environment, Kier Harlow has also closely monitored fuel usage.

The savings have enabled the company to invest in internal van items such as racking systems, tool safe and power inverters to enable power tool charging while on the move. It has also been awarded Business Champion status.

The scheme was so successful that it has now been rolled out across the wider Kier Building Maintenance business.

Stella Hinson, Kier Harlow's health and safety advisor, said: "The company has a fleet of 135 vehicles which includes HGVs, street sweepers, tractors and company cars.

"We take the responsibility of our staff and their impact on the local community very seriously.

"Road safety is imperative to Kier Harlow as we rely on our fleet to carry out the building maintenance and repairs, street cleaning and gardening in all areas of the town from major roads and small estate roads, to cycle paths, play areas and woodland areas."

Airport boss: It's time to heal rift

By SINEAD HOLLAND
star@hertsessexnews.co.uk

THE new boss of Stansted Airport has construction on his mind – but his focus is on building bridges with the community rather than a second runway.

Nick Barton, recently appointed managing director after performing the role on an interim basis since the departure of former boss David Johnston at the end of November, believes that now growth to 68m passengers a year has been ruled out by both the Government and Labour opposition, co-operation, not conflict, is the way forward.

He made it clear he wants to work with his neighbours to ensure the airport continues its mission to be as environmentally friendly as possible while growing as the region's leading single-site employer and a benefactor to the communities most affected by its operation.

"We need to rebuild the airport's relationship with its community," he said. "Airports are controversial entities; wherever they are they are controversial and it's incumbent on me to balance the arguments.

"I know a lot of people have deeply-held convictions about the airport but I'm very passionate about it and can see the benefits it produces, not just locally but at a national level.

"Now the prospect of a second runway has receded, it gives us an opportunity to rebuild relationships. I'm certainly wanting to make sure that the positive message on the airport is heard loud and clear."

Mr Barton (44) pledged to continue pressing for reductions in noise and emissions. Even during the latest weather crisis, environmental impact remained at the top of the airport's agenda. De-icing agent was used as sparingly as possible – and then any residue was removed to prevent contamination of local water sources.

The recent snow has also offered an unexpected opportunity to showcase what Stansted has to offer to new passengers and airlines alike.

It remained operational while ice-locked Gatwick and Heathrow hogged the headlines for all the wrong reasons and aircraft were diverted from both to the Essex hub.

And Mr Barton was full of praise for BAA's staff and the 10,500 employees of the almost 200 firms who also work on the airport for their efforts.

"They have all been magnificent. I have not seen one example of anyone dragging their feet or failing to deliver, despite the weather."

Currently about 19m travellers pass through its terminal annually, but unlike its major London rivals it has the capacity to expand to 35m a year.

While uncertainties remain over Stansted's ownership – now the subject of a BAA appeal to the Supreme Court – Mr Barton is focussed on increasing the 20 airlines which serve more than 140 destinations in 31 countries.

He said: "Airports are a scarce resource and I'm incredibly proud to have been given the opportunity to lead this particular airport because it has the potential to make the most of the recovery."

MP to give business leaders a chance to quiz panel of experts

BUSINESS leaders will get the chance to quiz Harlow MP Robert Halfon on the state of the economy at an advice surgery later this month.

The Question Time-style workshop, which is being run in conjunction with Essex Federation of Small Businesses, will enable firms in Mr Halfon's Harlow constituency to seek advice from a panel of business experts.

Mr Halfon said it was an ideal opportunity for employers and employees to ask questions on a wide range of subjects from the rise in VAT to apprenticeships.

"My aim is to have representatives from local enterprise agencies, high street banks and Essex FSB to answer any points which get raised," he explained.

"I believe that in the current economic climate it is even more important than usual for MPs to be in touch with their local businesses so we can see what needs to be done to help them out of recession and create new jobs."

Experts on the panel will include representatives from Foundation East, Banking on Essex, the Essex FSB and senior bank managers from Lloyds and Barclays Bank.

The surgery will be held at the Harlow Enterprise Hub in Edinburgh Way on Friday, January 21. To book a place visit <http://harlowmpbusinessadvicecentre210111.eventbrite.com>.

Residents fear piles of refuse are a health risk

By DAN PHILLIPS
daniel.phillips@hertsessexnews.co.uk

RESIDENTS have complained at the smell caused by rubbish piling up outside their homes after refuse collections ground to a halt during the recent cold snap.

Pick-ups in some parts of the town were stopped for two weeks as ice and snow prevented bin crews from making their rounds.

As crews struggled to catch up following the Christmas and New Year period, some residents were still having to put up with piles of waste from festive celebrations last week.

One resident of The Conyers, in Rivermill, contacted the Star because she feared bags piled up outside the block of flats were a health and safety hazard.

"The block has 27 flats in it and the rubbish from all of them is building up outside," she said. "It smells absolutely disgusting and is surely some kind of environmental or health and safety hazard."

A neighbour added: "There is no way in or out of the block without having to step over the rubbish. There are families with young babies living here."

The resident said that when she contacted Harlow Council on Friday they could not give her any assurances when the next collection would be.

Tony Hall, chairman of Harlow Council's environment policy working group, urged residents to "bear with us" but warned there could be more delays if the severe weather returns.

"Waste and recycling crews continue to work hard to catch up with collections," he said. "Delays are unfortunate but with the severe weather conditions last week we had to put the safety of residents and our crews first."

"We ask residents to bear with us as we catch up and we apologise for any inconvenience."

"It is anticipated that collections will be running fully to the published Christmas and New Year programme from January 10."

"However, if there is more snow and ice, collections could face further delays. We will continue to keep people up to date."

Get in shape on a woodland walk

WITH the Christmas and New Year celebrations now out of the way, the time has come for those who have over-indulged to think about shedding some of the pounds they gained during the festive season.

And what better way to start than by taking part in a six-mile woodland walk organised by Harlow Council and taking place on Saturday?

Starting in Latton Common Road, the route will take walkers around Latton Woods and Harlow Park Woods. Anyone wanting to take part should arrive at 9.45am for the 10am start.

The walk, which is expected to take around two hours to complete, is the third in a series of 20 led walks which are being organised by Harlow Council and Essex County Council in the build-up to the 2012 Olympic Games.

The "Walking Your Way To The Games" follow five routes based on the Olympic rings with varying degrees of duration and difficulty.

Walkers who successfully complete each route will be given a coloured pin badge to represent the colour of that particular route.

For more information about Saturday's walk and dates for the others, contact Sara Morris on (01279) 446403 or email sara.morris@harlow.gov.uk.

New arrivals bring seasonal g-litter to Pets Corner

THE latest additions to Pets' Corner in Harlow Town Park are already proving popular with visitors.

Emily, a Tamworth pig, gave birth to a quintet of piglets on Christmas Day.

"Emily was due on December 23 so staff knew she could give birth anytime, but they were surprised that it was Christmas Day!" said Joel Charles, chairman of Harlow Council's community & citizenship policy working group.

The first piglet was born at 7.30pm and the last arrived shortly before 11pm.

Both mum and her babies are doing well. (S)

Can you help a vulnerable child in need?

ESSEX residents are being urged to reach out to the most vulnerable children.

The county council need more foster carers, families and individuals to provide short breaks for disabled youngsters and people with space in their home to be part of the supported lodgings scheme.

There are currently more than 1,500 children in need in the county and approximately 60 families waiting for a shared care placement.

Sarah Candy, cabinet member for children's services at County Hall, said: "All of us have the ability to make a difference but it takes a special kind of person to be able to make time in their life for someone else's child."

"Helping provide a secure and loving placement for a vulnerable child or young person is one of the most amazing things we can ask of our residents."

Saddling our future leaders with a mountain of debt

SIR, Before Christmas I read in the Star a report on the protest by students of Harlow College at the decision to cut maintenance allowance payments.

I also note with considerable worry, the protests by undergraduates and other students in England on the bill going through parliament to increase the university tuition fees up to £9,000.

We are faced with the VAT increase this month and also have the cuts introduced by the present Conservative and Lib Dem government on all and sundry. We also have the reduction on various benefits paid to the poor and needy in our society. All these make me worry about the young and disadvantaged in our society.

With the noted increase in tuition fees and reduction in benefits and available jobs, what does our present Government want our youth to do? Some are bound to give up incurring a huge debt after university and try to find jobs which will not be there to find. Going on benefits will not help either because there will be cuts here too. Where do they go then?

The youth of today, who may be denied university education, will be the leaders of tomorrow and shall have to deal not only with personal debts but the national debt left by our Government of today.

The banks and financial institutions which put the western world into dire financial state have been left out of these cuts and are doing the same things which brought our economy on its knees. Some may remember that restrictions and regulations on the financial institutions were relaxed a number of years ago. The present Government appears not to have any plans to regulate these institutions. Instead, we are all being punished for their misdeeds.

Again, I would like to suggest that the billions of pounds being currently wasted on foolish wars in Afghanistan, Iraq and other places can finance the shortfall in the university budgets and the health service. There will be no need for the tuition fee increases and savage cuts announced by a savage Government. It is a shame the Lib Dems have to break promises made to the voters during the election period. I regard this as lacking in integrity.

I was so disgusted by the decision of some of my ex-fellow Liberals that I left to join them to join the Labour Party. I could not have joined the Conservatives, especially in Harlow, because it does not listen to the people of Harlow and its governance is characterised by democratic deficit as evidenced by the recent consultation exercise on change of governance and the parking charges. In short, I cannot work with mini dictators!

Councillor Manny Doku
Bush Fair, Harlow

The blame lies with those who are passing the buck

SIR, The pattern is set. The Government announces yet another of the most savage cuts since the 1930s by first blaming Labour's spending binge.

Unavoidable consequences are dutifully repeated at local level by our MP as the "sad legacy of the last Labour government" (Star, December 16).

Massive cuts in local government spending threaten to increase local unemployment and attack our most vulnerable residents who rely on public services. Already hit hardest by cuts in benefits, families with children, women and disabled people will bear the brunt of these cuts.

Yet we all know Labour is not responsible for the global banking crisis. Tories in opposition opposed regulation of finance and fought Labour's rescue plans every step of the way. Now the Cabinet with its 18 millionaires gamble on a merciless austerity programme for purely ideological reasons: to roll back the state and complete Thatcher's project.

They chose to declare war on public services and ordinary families while letting bankers, tax evaders and avoiders off the hook.

Harlow's Conservative leader, Andrew Johnson, denies that Harlow was singled out yet it is no accident that it is one of the biggest casualties in Essex. The deepest cuts are in traditional Labour areas such as Hackney, whereas Tory areas like Richmond are least affected.

Eric Pickles' new Localism Bill is said to give power to Information centre must be a priority

PRIZE LETTER OF THE WEEK

The Star has teamed up with Sheaffer, the prestige pen maker, to offer our correspondents the chance to win a stylish Sheaffer 300 worth almost £30. The writer of the Letter of the Week, as chosen by the editor, will win this quality Sheaffer roller ball pen. For further information go to www.sheaffer.com.

SIR, I was interested to read in the Star that we are now the UK's first sculpture town and that the council hopes this will bring more visitors. For many years from the 1950s Harlow was an international tourist attraction and the Harlow Development Corporation had excellent reception, publicity and tour arrangements. Sadly, since its demise there has been no comprehensive policy on tourism.

I have written many times over the years about the need for a proper Tourist Information Centre. When the six tourist coach parking bays and the Luther King Road were lost beneath the Water Gardens it was promised that a new town centre location would be provided. We're still waiting.

If we are to attract more visitors, then surely the Gibberd Gallery, Museum of Harlow and other cultural attractions must be open and available during the spring and summer months. Likewise, support should be given to the splendid Gibberd Garden.

We need to publish visitor guides, maps, food and drink information as these are all part of a proper tourism strategy, and also to provide experienced tour guides if required. We remain one of the few towns in Essex without a TIC. This must be a first priority. Surely we want visitors to feel informed, to feel welcomed and to enjoy their visit – and encourage others to come.

We have a lot to offer. Perhaps as a sculpture town we can carve a new and prestigious image for our town.

Ron Bill
Upper Park, Harlow

the people, an excellent idea in principle but not when accompanied by brutal cuts with councils expected to run services on the cheap.

The Big Society, according to Mr Johnson, will enable communities to take over certain services. The theory is that little platoons of volunteers and charities will fan out to replace the welfare state, but charities have already been severely cut – not least by our local Tory council. Victorian notions of philanthropy and begging bowls are left to cope without structural support. The roots of a genuine localism lie in the co-operative movement, working for the common good in solidarity and especially with a shift in power and finance from private profits to local democratic accountability.

Instead, the new localism is all about devolving the axe and then blaming local councillors for the disastrous personal effects. Welcome to a heartless 2011.

Councillor Jean Clark, Deputy Labour Leader
School Lane, Harlow

Time to have a rethink over need for bus lane

SIR, As I and many other motorists sit in a queue waiting once again for the traffic lights on Second Avenue to change because a minicab has used the bus lane with even fewer passengers than most cars trying to get to work, is it not time to revisit the need for this bus lane?

Anyone with any common sense would soon realise that if the two were open, those vehicles going to Pinnacles and those making their way to car parks in the town centre will leave the right hand lane free for anyone wishing to turn into Velzy Avenue and the main part of town. How sensible is that?

It might leave someone in the planning department feeling blue but they can console themselves by singing that old song, It Seemed Like A Good Idea At The Time.

Obviously we will still need the pedestrian crossing but that has a limited use so it must stay for safety reasons.

I'm sure many people will agree it's worth a try, but don't hold your breath.

Roy Hemmings
Westfield, Harlow

I'm so very grateful to the lady who walked me home

SIR, On Saturday, December 18 the buses stopped running in Harlow due to the bad weather and I couldn't get a cab.

Despite the terrible snowfall, a very kind lady offered to walk all the way home with me from the town centre.

We chatted on the way but all I know of her is her name, Velvet, and that she lives near the old swimming pool.

I told her I would be OK but she insisted on seeing me home. It was a long walk and the weather was very bad, and I am so grateful to her for her kindness and very thankful for her help.

I would like to thank her again through the pages of the Star. I want her to know just how much I appreciated her help.

Keeping the roads clear

SIR, Harlow ground to a halt during the recent heavy snow falls yet I can remember when Harlow Council was responsible for keeping our roadways clear.

In those days the dustcarts had attachments for snow ploughs and around the town there were placed salt bins. Where are the salt bins now?

Since everything has been put out to contract nothing seems to get done.

New Year honour for former dentist

A FORMER Harlow dentist who has racked up years of service to the community has been made a Member of the British Empire (MBE) in the New Year's Honours list.

cillor representing the Sawbridgeworth ward on East Herts District Council and has been a member of Hertfordshire County Council for two years.

He has also served as a magistrate and is chairman of governors at The Leventhorpe School in Sawbridgeworth.

Even though he knew six weeks beforehand that he was to receive a New Year's Honour, he did not tell anyone about the news – including his wife Jean – until the official announcement on New Year's Eve.

"My wife is a former Samaritan so we are very good at not telling each other things we are not supposed to say," said Dr Beeching, of High Wych Road, Sawbridgeworth. "For six weeks I didn't tell anyone."

"When I was first told I thought it was a mistake. It was such a surprise, probably the biggest surprise I have ever had."

He still attends all the parish councils in his patch to give reports to members.

"We have always thought if you live in a place, it's no good sitting back and moaning, you have to get on and do it," he said.

Dr Beeching has three daughters – Sarah, Verity and Alexis – and 15 grandchildren.

His wife was also a district and divisional commissioner for the Guides and a former midwife and district nurse.

Time running out for parents to lodge applications for primary school places

PARENTS of reception-aged children have until next Saturday (January 15) to apply for a primary school place for this year's September intake.

Applications can be made via Essex County Council's website at www.essex.gov.uk/admissions.

The site enables parents to search for school information, read OFSTED reports, check admissions criteria and submit their applications.

Stephen Castle, Essex County Council's cabinet member for education, said: "Choosing the first school for your child can be a daunting process. The website aims to provide you with the tools you need to make an informed application.

"Last year we were able to provide most parents with their preferred school but schools can become oversubscribed so it is important for parents to select a full list of preferences to keep their options open."

Parents are advised to indicate more than one preference and to include priority admissions or catchment schools as a preference.

King of the strings

HOW many people reading this page know that one of the world's finest jazz guitarists hails from Harlow?

Martin Taylor has gone from humble roots to perform and record extensively, working with musicians such as Stéphane Grappelli, Chet Atkins, Bill Wyman, George Harrison, Dionne Warwick, Sacha Distel, Bryn Terfel and Jamie Cullum. The guitarist is often referred to as a Scot but he was in fact born in the upstairs bedroom of his parents' council house in Collins Meadow in 1956.

By DAN PHILLIPS
daniel.phillips@hertsessexnews.co.uk

His family had moved to the new town from Surrey after his father, Bill, found a job here as a postman.

Martin was encouraged to play the guitar by his dad and it wasn't long before the local music scene had an influence on the budding musician.

At the age of eight he visited the haberdashery owned by Alan Summers in The High which sold musical instruments. He was allowed to play one of the expensive guitars but only if he took off his dirty jumper!

However the shop assistant quickly realised his talent and soon he was demonstrating the guitars in the shop.

Martin was not even a teenager before he joined his father's band, playing at social events in Essex and Hertfordshire.

"We were never short of gigs," the former Passmore schoolboy later recalled.

"Harlow had a lot of social clubs back then. Everyone was in work and they used to go to the clubs every weekend.

"Key Glass was one of Harlow's bigger factories and their social club would have regular dances. We played there quite a lot, but we'd also play community centres, village halls and places like that.

"Some of them didn't have electricity they were so old. Sometimes there were fights, too, which I enjoyed watching so things were never dull."

Many years later he would go on to record albums with his own band, Spirit of Django, and in 2002 was awarded an MBE for services to jazz music.

These days he spends much of the year travelling the world, playing in concert halls in Europe, North America, Japan, Asia and Australasia.

Last July he was awarded an honorary doctorate by the Royal Scottish Academy of Music & Drama and in November he performed at a star-studded concert for Prince William at Windsor Castle.

● More information about Martin's life can be found in Martin Taylor: Autobiography of a Travelling Musician, published by Sanctuary Publishing.

NOSTALGIA UPDATE: Harlow Catholic FC

NOSTALGIA'S reach is far and wide. So it was no surprise when a resident of the East Sussex town Lewes contacted us about this photograph printed in last week's edition.

Kate Turvey still has strong connections with Harlow and when her father, John Harman (known as Jack) featured in the paper she knew about it almost immediately.

"My sister Maeve, who still lives in Harlow, called me to say that Dad was in the paper," she said. Maeve had recognised him in a team photo of Harlow Catholic FC taken during the 1960-61 season. Jack is in the front row on the far left.

Kate was able to view the article in our e-edition available on our website.

"He would have been about 25 in the photograph," she said.

"I remember the club chairman, John Hogan, who is standing behind Dad in the photograph. He was a solicitor in Harlow at the time."

Sadly, Jack died in 1982.

Kate and her brother and sister went to St Albans Primary School alongside future Tottenham and England soccer legend Glenn Hoddle.

Row over carpet

A carpet is at the centre of a bust-up between local motorcyclists and Harlow Council. Bikers who have been barred from Harlow Motorcycle Training Centre say they have been unfairly accused of ruining the £1,500 carpet during maintenance classes.

Cops raise £2k

Harlow's police officers have come up trumps for Princess Alexandra Hospital. A charity football game against an all-star Thames TV team raised £2,101 for life-saving equipment for the hospital's baby unit.

Degree for Ben

Ben Hyde Harvey, the former general manager of Harlow Development Corporation, has been awarded an honorary degree by the Memorial University of Newfoundland. He was an original member of the Canadian university's Harlow Campus Trust.

Peter meets HRH

Former Mark Hall schoolboy Peter Hollywood met the Prince of Wales at the premier of Santa Claus The Movie. The appropriately named Mr Hollywood was once a projectionist at Harlow Odeon before editing the festive film.

WIN a pair of tickets for a Wilde evening out

WHAT better way to start the new year than a trip to the West End to see a hit play?

This week we are giving you the chance to win one of five pairs of tickets to An Ideal Husband, a glittering, highly-acclaimed new production of Oscar Wilde's story of morality, blackmail and political corruption.

Characterized by Wilde's biting wit and sparkling humour, this play is also a tender hearted portrait of a marriage.

Sir Robert Chiltern (Alexander Hanson), a highly successful government minister, finds his reputation, career and marriage to the loving but idealistic Lady Chiltern (Rachael Stirling) threatened by the arrival of the mysterious Mrs Cheveley (Samantha Bond).

Confronted with a damning secret from his past, Sir Robert turns for help to his friend, Lord Goring (Elliot Cowan), an apparently idle philandere, who himself has a history with Mrs Cheveley.

Can this dandified philosopher save his friend from ruin? And will Lady Chiltern be able to reconcile the man she loves with her expectations of an ideal husband?

The Daily Mail described it as "an ideal evening out" while The Daily Telegraph said it was "richly entertaining".

An Ideal Husband is being staged at the Vaudeville Theatre in The Strand until February 26. For your chance to win a pair of tickets to a performance, answer the simple question in the coupon and post it to: An Ideal Husband Competition, PO Box 268, Cambridge CB24 6HF, to arrive no later than January 13, 2011.

Alternatively, you can enter via the dedicated competition link on our website at www.harlowstar.co.uk. Be sure to enter 'An Ideal Husband' in the competition name line or your entry will be discounted.

Terms and Conditions

The prize is a pair of tickets to see An Ideal Husband. Tickets are valid for Monday - Thursday performances before February 10 and must be booked at least four working days prior to the performance you wish to attend. Subject to availability, exclusions apply. The prize is for best available seats at the time of booking, subject to availability. No cash alternative, transfers or refunds can be offered. Winning tickets will be reserved for collection at theatre box office.

Making a spectacle of Chinese chickens

CHICKEN farmers in China are so fed up with their birds getting into a flap with one another they have given them sunglasses to help keep the peace!

The experiment in Chengdu, capital of the Sichuan province in south west China, has a practical use beyond making the birds cock-a-hoop with how cool they look.

The snazzy shades were designed to help avoid scraps breaking out between rival roosters at the farm by obscuring their vision slightly, making it more difficult for the birds to pick fights.

"Because they are allowed to roam around during the day in the open space, it is inevitable the cockerels will start picking fights with each other, so we decided to make them all wear glasses," breeder Jiang Hau told reporters.

"Our cockerels are very aggressive by nature. They always fight with each other and cause bleeding and injuries. But giving them these plastic glasses to wear means they can't see each other so clearly so they are much quieter and much more peaceful."

If the wacky experiment works, other farmers in the region will give their cockerels the same new look to minimize farmyard disruption.

THE Monday Clinical Exercise Session at the Norman Booth Centre in Harlow is led by a qualified exercise specialist experienced in prescribing exercise for patients with a chronic condition.

Under supervision, you will learn how to exercise safely and confidently in a relaxed and friendly atmosphere. Men and women of all age groups work together at their own pace and all exercises are adapted to each individual's ability and needs.

You are also welcome if you just want to be more active. The session focuses on relieving joint stiffness, maintaining muscle strength and keeping the heart healthy and fit.

There are also specific exercises to maintain balance and co-ordination skills. These are achieved by using a variety of different equipment which can be performed seated or standing.

Refreshments are available, allowing you the opportunity to socialize with like minded people.

Call Marion Cooper for more information on 07814 826951 or email marioncooper@hotmail.co.uk.

Essex Pilates

SO many people want to get fit as part of their New Year's resolutions but getting fit for the New Year is not a long-term plan to get fit and stay fit for life, says Belinda Nuttall from Essex Pilates.

"There are several useful tips to remember when thinking about embarking on a new exercise programme and it is often wise to check with your doctor before doing so. For example, choose your exercise provider carefully and make sure any instructor is qualified and insured to deliver the advertised programmes," says Belinda. The Register of Exercise Professionals is an easy way to verify your instructor is qualified to the correct level on www.exerciseregister.org

"Pick a form of exercise that you enjoy and that suits your lifestyle, age and ability and make sure you have the correct clothing and footwear necessary to make sure you get an effective and safe workout. Faddy diets and fashionable exercise programmes are generally not recommended for providing a long-term 'fit for life' strategy to lose weight and get fit," adds Belinda.

Essex Pilates is celebrating its third year in Harlow and provides excellent quality, safe, enjoyable Pilates classes that give great results in the Essex and Hertfordshire area. Belinda runs classes for beginners, improvers, pre-natal and post-natal mums in Wäde, Hoddesdon and Harlow, both in the mornings and evenings.

The Eclipse of the 14th, can embolden you, and provide this will be good for you because it can help you to think more clearly about your New Year's resolutions, and also recent misunderstandings that have blighted you. Mercury finally does an about turn and this will be good for you because it can help you to think more clearly about your New Year's resolutions, and also recent misunderstandings that have blighted you. Taurus Apr 21-May 21
As you cogitate on your New Year's resolutions, loosening up more can certainly feature. This can even come out in a literal way, by spending more time doing daring and dashing things in 2011. However, equally, trying to do too much, and especially all at once, can see you achieve less. Good planning is therefore, going to be crucially important this year. Call now for more...

Jupiter and Uranus are side by side as you burst into this New Year, giving you a real push when it comes to demonstrating your creativity. Yet as much as exciting possibilities tempt, other planets are asking you to be mindful of completing on things that you started some time ago. Also issues you may prefer were not in the public domain may leak out. Call for more astral advice...

Gemini May 22-Jun 21
If you are feeling claustrophobic, in any type of relationship your need to liberate yourself, can become a theme. But thinking about it, talking about it, and actually doing it, are all very different things. If you've already gone through a physical separation, 2011 can begin with tussles about who owns or owes what. This may not be an uncomplicated process. Call for your love scope...

The New Moon in your sign in midweek really can propel you into this New Year with major gusto. Famous faces set for book festival

star@hertsexnews.co.uk

COMEDIAN David Baddiel, US crime writer Sara Paretsky, novelist Michael Dobbs and TV broadcaster Peter Sissons are just some of the big names confirmed for the Essex Book Festival 2011.

Now in its 12th year, the month-long extravaganza continues to attract the finest wordsmiths the literary world has to offer, from nationally and internationally-acclaimed writers to new emerging talent.

Councillor Jeremy Lucas, Essex County Council's cabinet member for heritage, culture and the arts, said: "The Essex Book Festival has once again raised the bar to provide a line-up which is better than ever. Already renowned in the literary world, it has secured some huge names which are sure to be a big hit in the county."

"But it is not just the big names we attract that makes this festival unique; we have plenty of Essex authors this year and are delighted to show off what Essex has to offer."

"This really is a treat for both book lovers and those looking to try something new, whatever their interests, and I have no doubt that tickets will once again sell out fast."

Running throughout March, the festival covers a wide range of themes, from history to poetry, at venues across the county. The festival launches on March 3 with a live BBC Essex broadcast from Chelmsford library featuring novelists Lindsey Davies and Joanna Trollope.

Other best-selling authors on this year's bill include Julian Stockwin, creator of the Naval Kydd series;

Small Island writer Andrea Levy, whose latest offering The Long Song was short-listed for the 2010 Man Booker prize; Aminatta Forna, author of Ancestor Stones, The Devil That Danced On Water and The Memory of Love; US writer Kim Edwards, who penned The Memory Keeper's Daughter, and British chick-lit favourite Lesley Pearce.

Festival organisers have also secured a number of well-known national newspaper columnists, including The Daily Telegraph's Simon Heffer, former The Times editor Peter Stothard, The Observer's Elizabeth Day and Will Hutton from The Guardian.

Once again, the festival offers the chance to see some home-grown talent, including JoJo Moyes, writer of The Last Letter From Your Lover; Patricia Burns, author of Follow Your Dream; Bernadine Kennedy, who penned Shattered Lives, Past Chances and Taken, and Kimberley Chambers, who has been described as the new Martina Cole.

Tickets are available now from the box office on (01206) 573948. For more information, visit www.essexbookfestival.org.uk or pick up a brochure from local libraries.

Ballet show lives up to its billing

REVIEW

Harlow Ballet Association
Playhouse Studio

A PACKED audience at The Playhouse's studio theatre was treated by Harlow Ballet Association to what was billed as a "Choreography Spectacular". And wasn't it just!

This dazzling production was arranged and prepared by four of the older students - Alicia Davison, Jessica Gudgeon, Sophie Hull and Charlotte Wightwick - and featured their younger colleagues and themselves in a series of beautiful pieces.

The performance started with a raunchy and magnificent septet dancing to Cell Block Tango and the standard never faltered throughout the following 14 numbers.

The dancers displayed their virtuosity with a complete mixture of dance styles ranging from ultra modern to classical ballet and back again for the rousing finale - Rhythm of Life - which utilised every member of the company right down to the smallest.

Special mention must be made of Brett Shiels and Cassandra Mason, who stepped in at the last moment. Although it seems invidious to pick out any single dance from this superb whole, I particularly enjoyed Celtic Knot with its slight leanings to Irish dance and the delicate grey and pale coffee coloured renaissance butterflies in Beauty In Unison.

The little ones gave us a rousing Mutiny in which they all obviously enjoyed themselves and some were also included in the offerings with their older and more experienced colleagues.

When everyone worked so very hard - none more so than the four begetters of the evening's entertainment - it seems wrong to single out any one child from the many but I would draw attention to possible stars of the future in Alana Mansfield, whose concentration never wavered and was a delight to behold in Fly to Your Heart, and the youthful pas-de-deux danced by Chelsey Stanborough and Joby Dixon as part of Winter Snowflakes. Harlow Ballet Association must be very proud of Alicia, Charlotte, Jessica and Sophie and we can look forward with eager anticipation to their performances in Cinderella later on in the year.

"THE British are coming" declared screenwriter Colin Welland in 1982 when he collected his Oscar for Chariots Of Fire.

More than 20 years later, his prophecy seems to be coming true.

Slumdog Millionaire was the toast of Tinseltown in 2008, garnering almost every trophy in sight, and now The King's Speech is poised to do the same, and win Colin Firth a well-deserved Academy Award for this heartrending portrayal of King George VI in Tom Hooper's majestic comedy drama.

Firth is matched laugh for laugh by Geoffrey Rush in imperious form, and the cream of homegrown acting talent provides illustrious support, including Timothy Spall as Winston Churchill.

The King's Speech is an impeccably crafted chapter from recent British history that charts a remarkable and unlikely friendship between two men from opposite sides of the class divide.

When King George V (Michael Gambon) dies in 1936, eldest son Edward (Guy Pearce) ascends to the throne but his reign is shrouded in scandal as he continues to romance American divorcee Wallis Simpson (Eve Best).

Love triumphs over duty and Edward abdicates, forcing youngest son Albert (Colin Firth) into the spotlight. However, the newly crowned King George VI suffers from a crippling stammer, which renders him unable to deliver public addresses.

With war imminent and the country looking to its King for leadership, Queen Elizabeth (Helena Bonham Carter) approaches unconventional Australian-born speech therapist Lionel Logue (Geoffrey Rush) on the recommendation of a friend.

The King's Speech is a crowd-pleasing, heart-tugging gem, seen through the eyes of a man who is frightened to say a word for fear of what might – or might not – come out.

David Seidler's script elegantly dissects the relationship between monarch and commoner, creating memorable exchanges that provide the film with huge laughs and a strong emotional heartbeat.

Firth delivers the performance of his life, battling valiantly against his condition, while Rush is hysterical as the linguist who refuses any concessions to his king. The finale is guaranteed to have audiences cheering and sobbing with joy.

If The King's Speech is a sign of things to come in 2011 then it will be a very, very happy new year.

innocence, she is found guilty and jailed. Meanwhile, John files multiple appeals while struggling to raise their children and maintain his career.

When Lara's final appeal is rejected she admits she would rather commit suicide than spend the rest of her life behind bars. Determined to save his wife after the justice system fails her, John seeks the advice of ex-convict Damon Pennington (Liam Neeson), who staged his own prison escape, in order to draw up an airtight plan.

As John prepares to put his life on the line for the woman he loves, he sets the plan into motion with the knowledge that one false move could be their last.

Love & Other Drugs Set in the mid 1990s, the film centres initially on pharmaceutical sales rep Jamie Randall (Jake Gyllenhaal), who works alongside mentor Bruce Jackson (Oliver Platt), wooing waiting room receptionists like Cindy (Judy Greer) in the hope of getting their drugs on to the shelves. During one visit to the surgery of Dr Knight (Hank Azaria), Jamie meets 26-year-old patient Maggie Murdock (Anne Hathaway), an artist with early onset Parkinson's disease. The more time Maggie and Jamie spend together, the more aware they become that her degenerative condition could rob them of any chance of lasting happiness.

Gulliver's Travels Lemuel Gulliver (Jack Black) works in the postroom of a New York newspaper where he pines for travel editor Darcy Silverman (Amanda Peet) from afar. In order to impress the object of his affections, Gulliver blags a travel assignment to the Bermuda Triangle. Heading out to sea on his boat Nottersail, Gulliver is swept into a massive, swirling column of water and ends up as a giant in the land of Lilliput. Feared at first by the tiny inhabitants, Gulliver ingratiates himself to King Theodore (Billy Connolly), Queen Isabelle (Catherine Tate) and their daughter Princess Mary (Emily Blunt).

Meet The Parents: Little Fockers Gaylord "Greg" Focker (Ben Stiller) is blissfully in love with his wife Pam (Teri Polo) and his twins, Samantha (Daisy Tahan) and Henry (Colin Hanks). But Pam's father – retired CIA operative Jack Byrnes (Robert De Niro) – continues to view Greg with suspicion and isn't sure that his son-in-law is made of the right material to lead the Byrnes clan.

Tron Legacy (3D) Sam Flynn (Garrett Hedlund), the tech-savvy 27-year-old son of Kevin Flynn (Jeff Bridges), investigates his father's disappearance and finds himself pulled into the same world of fierce programmes and gladiatorial games where his father has been living for 20 years. Father and son embark on a life-and-death journey across a cyber universe that has become far more advanced and exceedingly dangerous.

The Chronicles of Narnia: Voyage Of The Dawn Treader (3D) Lucy and Edmund Pevensie return to Narnia with their cousin Eustace where they meet up with Prince Caspian for a trip across the sea aboard the royal ship The Dawn Treader. Along the way they encounter dragons, dwarves, merfolk and a band of lost warriors before reaching the edge of the world.

Megamind (3D) The supervillain Megamind finally conquers his nemesis Metro Man but finds his life pointless without a hero to fight.

Price £459,995
Agent Wright & Co, The Old Post Office, 4 Church Street, Sawbridgeworth. Telephone (01279) 600400

OUR cover property this week is a beautifully decorated and well-maintained four-bedroom semi detached chalet home in a sought-after rural setting.

Ivydene, in Foster Street, is extremely convenient for the M11 at Harlow and the M25, with easy access to central London. It is just a short drive to Churchgate Street with its local pub, shops, hotel and leisure centre, while Old Harlow and Harlow offer shopping centres, schools, recreational facilities and mainline railway stations.

There is a dining room, living room, three ground floor bedrooms, two luxury bath/shower rooms and a first floor master bedroom suite with shower room and dressing room.

The stunning hand-built Clive Christian kitchen has a superb range of matching base and eye level units, light-coloured granite worktops, glazed display cupboards and integrated appliances including dishwasher, washing machine and a range-style cooker with six ceramic rings and warming zone. French doors lead to the rear patio.

Ivydene has a sunny, south-facing back garden measuring approximately 600ft and backing on to open farmland. To the rear of the property is an extensive 45ft paved patio area which is ideal for outside entertaining and barbecues.

There is also a large timber storage shed which houses the oil tank and an office/workshop with power and light and a second large storage shed. To the front is a shingle driveway providing parking space for several cars.

IF buying a new home is at the top of your New Year resolutions list for 2011, then Homes Now is a great place to start.

Whatever reasons you have for moving, judging the property market is notoriously difficult. It may sound simple when we hear that house prices have fallen and interest rates are at an all-time low, but have prices got even further to fall and if you buy now could you have paid a great deal less in a year?

Trying to establish if prices have reached their lowest isn't usually clear until they are already on the way up again! And even if you believe the price is right, there's no guarantee the right home will be available in the location you want.

Maybe you're wondering whether to buy or rent and what will suit your circumstances best. How would your mortgage costs compare to renting? Buying a home now will probably make more sense if the repayments are similar to renting. Mortgage repayments can only increase with interest rate rises. The capital sum you borrow won't increase.

Get to know your local market and be ready to buy when the right home is available at a price that is right for you. The local agents featured in Homes Now are the best place to start. They're the experts and will be able to offer you help and advice.

Once they have a good idea of what you're looking for, they'll be able to look out for the right properties for you.

New year, new home, new beginnings. Happy 2011.

Local Property Comment

Alan Howick

Well, off we go into another year, full of hope and expectations and wishing it is better than 2010!

In fact last year was not that bad, with plenty of interest from potential buyers looking in all parts of Harlow right up to New Years eve.

The big problem is a lack of sensible mortgage products from the banks, with unrealistic deposits needed.

They are really making life very difficult for many families, saying, "yes, we will help and provide you with a mortgage, now go out and find a house!".

I noticed recently in the national media conflicting views of what is happening, and what may happen after the VAT increase, and the possibility of interest rates going up later this year.

Whatever happens, nothing is going to be cheaper than now, except, would you believe, mortgages. The interest rates are now the lowest for over forty years.

I should know!

It's hard not to love the Leon

By Matt Joy

TOUGH love is the best way to describe how this SEAT Leon FR TDI has been treated in the past month.

Its abilities have not waned or suffered as the months have rolled by and it is just as appealing, if not more so, than the first day I took it home. But the sheer diversity of weather and the hefty amount of ground it has had to cover has meant it clearly felt a bit sorry for itself. So do I.

The scariest part is that the Leon has been clocking up about 2,500 miles a month. Scary because it's hard to remember where all those miles have gone, but more so because the Leon clearly does a fine job of massaging those miles away and avoids you feeling every single yard. Crossing the 12,000-mile barrier has also meant the Leon politely asked for its first service. With variable servicing intervals it won't always come at this distance, but given the amount of ground it covered there's no shame – an average driver

Seat Leon FR TDI
CR 5-door DSG

from £20,990

Engine: 2.0-litre diesel unit delivering 168bhp
Transmission: 6-speed dual clutch transmission driving front wheels
Performance: Maximum speed 133mph / 0-62mph 8 seconds Economy: 41.9mpg (overall), 55.1mpg (best) wouldn't see a dealer for 12 months or more.

There was a reminder with 500 miles to go, but such has been the workload for this beast of burden that it was past that marker before it finally got to put its feet up. Once the booking was made, getting the Leon some TLC was as fuss-free as you would hope. Rather than loiter in the rather well-equipped waiting area, I asked a colleague to run me back to the office.

Later that afternoon the phone rang to tell me that the Leon was ready to go. Freshly washed and vacuumed, it was a pleasure to step back inside knowing it had been on the receiving end of some professional attention. Fluids were topped up, oil changed (with a top-up bottle of the high quality oil put in the boot) and a thorough checkover revealed no problems.

And with that the Leon was back on the road and back to clocking up big distances in a single hit. With the 2.0-litre diesel unit properly loosened up, the balance between performance and economy was even more enjoyable to exploit.

The regular commute of 33 miles could either be performed at a wallet-pleasing 51mpg or in 10 fewer minutes with a little more exercising of the right foot.

Either way, the Leon managed to bridge the gap between the two so neatly that it never felt compromised whether cruising or tearing up some challenging roads.

There was more guilt to come as it went through a run of bad luck.

Firstly some inconsiderate moron left a smudge of blue paint and an inch-long crease in the driver's door in an airport car park without so much as a written apology, never mind a phone number.

Then the front left tyre started to drop pressure on a regular basis (helpfully pointed out by the standard tyre pressure monitoring system). A visit to a local tyre fitter revealed a two-inch screw firmly embedded in the outer wall.

Tempting though it was to go for a cheaper option, the remaining Pirelli P Zeros were all well within 5mm of tread so although it wasn't cheap at £125, keeping the sweet handling balance was worth a little extra.

And then a winter wash to remove road grime revealed a black mark on the back pillar and a scrape on the rear bumper, evidence of more inconsiderate and selfish parking.

I don't think the Leon has become a target for envy, but the anguish it caused just proved how it had worked its way into my affections.

A car that is so genuinely capable and seemingly suited to almost anything you can throw at it is hard not to love.

End of the road for your vehicle?

Responsible drivers scrap their vehicles at an Authorised Treatment Facility (ATF).

Because only an ATF can legally scrap a vehicle.
 That means any pollutants will be made safe before it's recycled in an environmentally friendly way.

What's more, for certain types of vehicle you'll get a DVLA approved Certificate of Destruction (CoD).
 A CoD proves that the ATF has told DVLA your vehicle has been scrapped and so is no longer your responsibility. www.direct.gov.uk/motoring

A breath of fresh air.

Here's some good news to start 2011. We're expanding, we're taking on staff, and we're offering careers to the following talented individuals who meet our high ideals. We are Molecular Products, the Essex based UK Head Office of a market leading multinational producing leading edge chemical technology used in the purification of air systems which preserve life and protect the environment.

Process Operators – Oxygen Generation

You'll become valuable members of our production team carrying out processes with care and diligence to ensure the products we make meet their specification. You will need to have a good educational background particularly in Maths and English. You'll be physically fit for the manual handling involved and demonstrate a can-do attitude operating on your own initiative with the minimum of supervision. Previous experience of the chemical industry and its health and safety rules would be an advantage.

Warehouse Operative

Our despatch department ensures the timely and effective delivery of our products. It's the crucial end process which ensures the right products get to the right customers within the promised time, in optimum condition. You'll unload and inspect deliveries, input accurately into our computerised stock control system, stock products safely and efficiently and move stock to despatch performing final inspections. This position requires a fork lift truck qualification.

Quality Control Analyst

Our reputation for quality is second to none, achieved in part by constant testing of samples to maintain our exacting QA standards. As a key member of this team you will complete and report regular tests, investigate and resolve problems and trouble shoot issues.

You'll maintain and calibrate lab equipment and assist our New Product Development teams by developing testing protocols on new products. You'll therefore be IT literate and numerate to at least A level standard.

Back Warehouse Operative

You'll join an efficient team in CO₂. As part of this team you will barcode, shrink wrap and despatch products, meeting production targets, maintaining accurate records as well as a safe and clean working environment. You'll therefore be accurate and diligent in your work, operating conscientiously and carefully in accordance with our strict health and safety policy. This position requires at least two years fork lift truck driving experience.

Each of the above positions involve shift working patterns, carry an attractive salary package, training opportunities and the potential to develop your career within an expanding successful organisation.

To be considered, please apply in writing, stating clearly the position of interest to Sue Styles, Organisational Development Manager at SES@Molprod.com by Friday 14th January 2011.

Hawks boss targets duo

HAWKS boss Kevin Warren is looking to bring in two new players to boost his squad.

This follows the decision of midfielder Ben Bradbury to rejoin former club Tilbury.

Warren's decision to sign a striker is partly forced through an injury to Clark Akers (gashed knee) and a suspension for Che Stadhart.

Warren said: "He [Bradbury] wants to be playing week in, week out. At Tilbury he can get games and that's good for him."

"Clark Akers is probably going to be out for two weeks because of the gash to his knee. He will not be having the stitches out until a week on Friday and it's difficult to know how he will heal."

"I'm hoping to get in a striker from a Ryman premier club and a midfielder from a Conference South club."

"I would say it's 50-50 as to whether we get them. They would add depth and experience."

The Hawks visit Potters Bar Town this Saturday. Stadhart is available as his suspension starts a week later and he could miss the Redbridge game.

"Leon Hunter has trained but is very sore [with an Achilles tendonitis injury] and he will be out for two weeks while Che Stadhart will miss this game through suspension. Sacha [Opinel] has suffered from 'flu and it's doubtful he will be available for Saturday," Warren added.

Hero to zero

>>Cont'd from back page barely a minute and was sent off on 70 minutes.

Despite being a man down it was Harlow who came closest to snatching a winner in the latter stages, with the lively Peagram twice going close.

"I thought we deserved more than we got. We had three or four good chances and James Hasell did not really have a save to make," added Hawks boss Warren.

HARLOW TN: Hasell, Barnard, Barnes, York, Stewart, Brown, Ferguson, Kilapi, Peagram (Judge 90), Cowley (Stadhart 61), Akers (Modeste-Humphrey 31).

Trio's New run

THREE Harlow Running Club members completed the Ely New Year's Eve 10K road race.

First home was Jared Bethell in 14th place out of more than 500 finishers in a superb 35 minutes and 39 seconds. This time was just 30 seconds outside his personal best time for the distance.

He was followed home by Jon Steadman (44:01) and Susie Morley (59:10).

Trophy win is fine end to year for anglers

STORT Valley Angling Society's 'matchmen' had a fine end to 2010.

The Harlow club's team of Steve Beehan, Bill Beehan, Kevin Shaw, Steve Turnbull and Danny Cruse came third overall in the prestigious LAA Benevolent Trophy on Hertfordshire's Grand Union Canal.

This was made possible when Kevin Shaw (9lbs) and Steve Beehan (8lbs 1oz) took first and second place, while club-mates chipped in with useful points from reasonable hauls.

The Society's final coach outing of 2010 to Ramsay St Mary in the Cambridgeshire Fens was cancelled because of the severe weather.

However, the annual Christmas 'Fur 'n Feather' match was fished on the Town Park stretch of the local river Stort, just before Christmas, after Netteswell Pond was frozen over.

Eighteen members attended. Roy Deadman tempted 11 chub on pole-fished bread punch, for a fine winning weight of 37lbs 1oz. A single chub weighing 4lbs 13ozs saw Nick Jones claim second place ahead of third-placed Mick Westby (3lbs 6ozs).

HECC coach hopeful of ECB Level Four badge

LUKE Humphrey is on the path to reaching one of the highest echelons of cricket coaching.

The 30-year-old head coach at the HECC (Herts and Essex Cricket Centre) on the edge of Harlow began a two-year programme to obtain his ECB Master Coach Level Four badge in September.

Humphrey, who used to play for Bishop's Stortford, is studying mainly at Loughborough University.

His studies embrace areas such as game preparation and game management, as well as physical fitness and psychology.

Humphrey said: "I'm enjoying it and it's a big challenge. It will just add to what we want to achieve at the centre, which is to hopefully put out the best cricket facilities and coaching we can have."

Humphrey was nominated for the ECB Level Four badge by the former ECB League batting coach Dene Hills.

This was after Humphrey, below, worked alongside Hills at the National Cricket Performance Centre in Loughborough earlier this year.

Humphrey has also worked with coaches including ex Zimbabwe skipper Dave Houghton, and helped select prospective players for the England U-13, U-16 and U-19 sides for talent tests.

It was the second time Humphrey, from Little Hadham, had tried to get on the Level Four course.

Humphrey was interviewed by a three-man panel in July who gave him the thumbs up for the ECB Level Four qualification.

He said: "I was apprehensive about the interview as I had gone for it before about three years ago and didn't make it."

"Looking back I can see why; I wasn't ready for it. I didn't have a very good interview as I wasn't in the right place to start the two-year course."

In the long-term Humphrey hopes to stay coaching at the indoor cricket centre, which moved from near Harlow Mill to High Wych a couple of years ago.

This is a family-run business, but as a coach he would like to go as far as he can.

"In the long term it will be great having massive connections with the cricket centre," he said.

"I shall be based here as I look to become a specialist batting coach and maybe look at local areas and their squad players on that basis, out of this cricket centre."

The facilities include five cricket lanes, up-to-the-minute video feedback to eradicate error and a cricket shop. The centre hopes to have an outdoor pitch in place by 2012.

A race to the finish

Both sides had late chances to snatch victory.

Stuart Blackburne nodded wide, while at the other end Peagram's close-range shot went over the bar.

Warren added: "It was a good game of football. They are pushing for a play-off place as well as us."

"It was a shame we couldn't take all three points. But we are only seven points off the play-offs and we have two or three games in hand. The work rate was superb. The hard work we put in over Christmas paid off."

HARLOW TN: Hasell, Barnard (Cockman 71), Stewart, York, Barnes, Ferguson, Brown, Kilapi (Modeste-Humphrey), Cowley, Akers, Judge (Peagram 61).

Cycling, netball win over public

But football on decline says report

Feature

NEW participation figures published by Sport England paint a mixed picture of progress in grassroots sport, with strong growth in running and cycling but a decline in other major sports, including football, rugby and swimming.

Overall, the slow but steady increase in participation numbers seen over the past five years continues, with nearly 7m people now taking part in sport at least three times a week.

The Active People Survey results show that regular participation is now 123,000 closer to the Government's aim to get one million people playing more sport by 2012-13.

Weekly participation in athletics – including running – has swelled by over 263,000 over the past two years, buoyed by a growing network of informal running groups across the country.

Over the same period, cycling's numbers are up by almost 100,000.

British Cycling chief executive, Ian Drake, said: "We put great stock on trying to ensure our participation initiatives truly meet the needs of those we're hoping to get involved in our sport."

"Indeed, we can partly put the continued success down to the fact that we listen to participants and adapt our offerings based on the feedback we receive."

"We're committed to getting more people on their bikes and importantly, keeping them cycling."

"What is particularly exciting for us is that we're confident there's plenty more to come and throughout 2011 we will be launching more new initiatives to help get more people cycling more regularly."

Netball's participant numbers are up by more than 26,000, an increase of a fifth in the size of the sport in two years.

NO GROWTH: More people are turning away from football and looking to running and cycling as participation sports

Much of this success comes from the Back to Netball programme, which tempts women to return to the sport.

This is just one of the initiatives that have contributed to a recovery in women's participation in netball in 2010.

England Netball chief executive, Paul Clark, said: "England Netball are immensely proud of the success of our Back to Netball scheme."

"The realisation that 'one size netball' does not fit all was a turning point for the organisation and has allowed us to begin to reach out to women who would never have contemplated returning to the game through more traditional structures, allowing them to participate on their own terms."

"The Netball Development Officer workforce have done a fantastic job of rolling this out locally and we look forward to continued success in the future."

The figures show the continued under-performance of five of the top seven participation sports, including the only sports with more than two million weekly participants – swimming and football.

Their size means that this decline has a major impact on the overall growth of grassroots sport in the UK.

For these two – and other sports such as cricket and rugby – the challenge is to arrest the drop in participation outside the club structures where they have traditionally focused most of their attention.

The past 12 months have also been a tough period for sports that are costly and time-consuming such as golf and sailing.

There has been a marked drop in participation in these activities among men aged between 35 and 44.

Sport England chief executive, Jennie Price, said: "It would be fair to describe the results as a mixed bag."

"It's good to see a wide range of sports – from individual pursuits like running to small team sports like lacrosse – demonstrating that, with the right approach, increasing grassroots participation is a realistic ambition."

"What is concerning, however, is that a number of major sports have yet to deliver, despite significant levels of investment."

"They now urgently need to demonstrate their ability to grow participation in their sport and prove they can make a significant contribution to sport at the grassroots level."

Hugh Robertson, minister for Sport and the Olympics said: "During the comprehensive spending review we fought hard to get a good settlement for sport, keeping the whole sport plans in place."

"Now it is vital to see a return from the investment sports get from the public purse."

"I want every pound that national governing bodies spend on the grassroots to count."

"Our recently launched 'Places People Play' strategy will help get more people participating but we also need sports' governing bodies to step up to the plate and deliver."

"Some sports are making progress such as athletics and netball and we need to learn lessons from them to get growth across the board."

Sport England is 18 months into a four-year investment period for 46 sports' national governing bodies.

The sports have been set individual targets to increase participation over the four years.

KEVIN WARREN'S MEN GET FIGHTING FIT WITH BOXERCISE CLASS

CASSIUS CLARK: Hawks striker Clark Akers, right, lets off some steam with boxercise trainer David Hogg (HSP0702857)

Hawks gonna knock you out

KEVIN Warren hopes his troops will be fighting fit for 2011 – after enlisting the players in a novel boxing training session!

Harlow-based boxercise trainer David Hogg took an impromptu boxing session for the first team squad.

The club have been struggling to hold outdoor training sessions what with all the bad weather over the last month.

So Hogg came down to Barrows Farm to run a session for almost 20 players to keep them fit and build up team spirit.

Warren was delighted with how the session went; he said it was great for team bonding as well as keeping the players fit.

"It was the first time we have done that. It gave us something different and it's good for team spirit. The players loved it. There was lots of banter flying about," said Warren.

But the Hawks chief will be hoping his stars don't take their new found pugilistic talent out onto the football pitch. "We don't want any more red cards," he joked.

"We need to leave the boxing in the function suite."

Training sessions are usually broken up partly between running and some small-sided football matches, so the Harlow Town boss was pleased to give his side a break from the norm.

Although he admitted many thought it would be a lot easier than what it proved to be.

"It's a different kind of work-out, rather than being on the football pitch or running all day. We only did half an hour and most of us were blowing. It was hard work. We worked up a good sweat," Warren said.

The Hawks boss even admits there might be one or two budding David Hayes at the Ryman division one north club. "There were one or two who looked like they could throw a punch," he confessed. "Although one or two could not quite get the hang of it."

The Harlow boss would not name in either case to avoid embarrassment – or inflate any egos!

Warren hopes Hogg will return on a monthly basis to keep the players in check.

"Once a month would be good in training or after. It keeps the fitness up and it means we're doing something different. There are lots of benefits from it," he said.

But for now the Hawks have got to show more punch on the pitch as they strive for a winning run which can get their play-off quest back on track.

Milestone for goalkeeper

JIM Hasell notched up his 250th appearance for Hawks in the 2-2 draw at home to Enfield Town on Saturday.

The custodian has had three spells at the club, first made his debut in the 2000-01 campaign when Ian Allinson managed the side. He left for Leyton a few years later but returned in 2008-09 before a spell at Ryman division one north rivals Brentwood Town, Harlow Town's opponents on Tuesday.

Hasell has only just won his first team place back from Rhys Madden.

Madden kept four clean sheets in the league in October to win the Safe Hands Award from the Ryman League as the Hawks went top of the pile.

Hasell was the No.1 at the start of the season, but lost his place after getting injured. He was restored to the first team for the FA Trophy first round match against Blue Square Bet South side Woking on December 11, a 2-0 defeat.

Hasell, who celebrates his 29th birthday on Friday week (January 14), kept his place as Harlow ended a five-match losing streak in the league when they beat Ilford 2-0 three days later. This was Harlow's first clean sheet in more than a month.

The Hawks boss said: "Jim came back in and did okay against Woking. He got the clean sheet against Ilford and did OK."

"Rhys did well and we've got two good goalkeepers and that is good for us to see the season through. Whoever comes in, I know they will do well."

Substitute Stadhart goes from hero to zero

HAWKS substitute Che Stadhart went from hero to zero as he was sent off just minutes after helping his side make a point at play-off chasing Brentwood Town. The Hawks stretched their unbeaten league run to three with Tuesday's draw. They had lost 4-0 to their close neighbours in the corresponding fixture in November. But they will now lose Stadhart after he paid the price for indiscipline. The Hawks were without left-back Sacha Opinel against Brentwood, who is now suspended but is now suffering from a bout of 'flu. Harlow were on top from the start and went close on 14 minutes when striker James Peagram's shot was well held by home keeper Andy Hall.

Shortly after this effort, a nice ball over top from skipper Danny Brown put Peagram through but his header looped up and Hall saved. The visitors suffered a blow just past the half-hour mark when Clark Akers was forced off with a gash to his left knee. This injury required six stitches at a local hospital. Brentwood hit back and after a couple of close misses took the lead when Steve Butterworth's deflected drive went in off Ellis Remy, wrong-footing Harlow keeper James Hasell on 40 minutes. Peagram went close just past the hour before 'flu victim Stadhart came on as substitute and immediately made an impact. Stadhart's neat lay-off allowed Peagram the time and space to beat the keeper and drive low into an empty goal. However, Stadhart then received two yellow cards in >>Cont'd on page 66

FOOTBALL fans talk about the Premiership title race being the most open for years, but there is an equally exciting drama unfolding in Ryman division one north this season.

Even as far down as Heybridge in 14th, you could argue any of these teams could finish in the top five.

Harlow Town fought back to claim a point on Saturday against one of the sides who were expected to make the play-off places at the start of the season.

And the Hawks may well look back on this as a crucial point as they ended a run of three successive home defeats. It kept the Hawks just seven points adrift of the play-off spots.

The promotion race is certainly keeping Hawks boss Kevin Warren captivated. "It's tight and there's a long to go. We are not even halfway through it yet. It will be an exciting second half of the season," he said.

This was very much a game of two halves in terms of it being a great cure for insomnia in the first half - and an absolute thriller after the break.

Donny Barnard made his Harlow comeback after seven weeks out with a knee ligament injury.

Hawks came closest to scoring in the first half when midfielder Steve Ferguson stabbed wide of an Enfield post.

Town took the lead on 33 minutes when Paul Marks laid a through ball to Leon Osei on the left side of the box. He fed Jon Moore and he drilled the ball home.

Harlow should have equalised just past the hour, but were denied by a brilliant save by Enfield keeper Rob Blackburne.

Reece Yorke met a cross from the left but Blackburne made a sublime point-blank stop.

Harlow equalised on 75 minutes when a cross from the left flank was met by substitute James Peagram who headed home from close range.

But Harlow were stung almost immediately when Enfield substitutes Stuart Blackburne and Jey Siva combined. Siva's neat pass across the box allowed Adam Wallace to smash the ball in on 77 minutes.

The Hawks refused to give up and made it 2-2 only a minute later. Clark Akers reacted first from his own free-kick to drill the ball in on 78 minutes.
